This 3-part series is open to care partners of individuals with Alzheimer’s disease, a related dementia or mild cognitive impairment, who are in the early stages and are interested in learning more about their diagnosis in an interactive program.

When someone is diagnosed with Alzheimer’s, friends and family have many questions. What does the diagnosis mean? What kinds of plans need to be made? What resources are available to help? Hear from those directly affected and learn what you need to know, what you need to plan and what you can do at each point along the way. This program is designed to provide care partners with the knowledge, tools and strategies needed to cope with a diagnosis of Alzheimer’s disease or a related dementia.

Topics covered will include:

- Symptoms of the early stage of Alzheimer’s disease
- Legal, financial and resource planning that needs to be done in the early stage
- Components of a care team and how to successfully work with each component during the early stage of the disease

Each participant will receive a “Tips for Caregivers” workbook.
