

Clinician Educator in Medical Oncology
Division of Oncology, Department of Medicine

The Division of Oncology in the Department of Medicine at Stanford University is seeking a board-certified or eligible medical oncologist in the Clinician/Educator Line as Clinical Assistant Professor or Clinical Associate Professor. This position is based at Stanford Health Care's Emeryville Cancer Center, with opportunities on the Stanford campus in Palo Alto.

The successful candidate will see patients in seven to eight half-day Oncology Clinics, predominantly in Emeryville, and will participate in a weekly solid Tumor Board (subspecialty depending on interest of the applicant and need of the practice). He/she will be expected to teach medical staff and trainees in the clinical setting. He/she will pursue research as a solid tumor clinical trialist and participate in the division's teaching activities in clinics and in research.

The major criterion for appointment, reappointment, and promotion for Clinician Educators is excellence in the overall mix of clinical care and clinical teaching appropriate to the programmatic need the individual is expected to fulfill.

Candidates must have an MD and be board certified or eligible in Oncology or Hematology/Oncology. Rank will be based on qualifications and experience.

Interested candidates should submit a brief letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references to:
