The Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at the Stanford University School of Medicine is seeking a full-time faculty member to provide clinical care, teaching, and administrative leadership in the area of child and adolescent clinical psychology. This position requires strong skills and experience in psychological assessment, evaluation, and treatment of childhood psychiatric disorders. Previous leadership and clinical managerial experience is required.

This position is open to clinical psychologists with subspecialty training in child psychology. Candidates must have a doctoral degree in psychology or equivalent degree, have completed an APA-approved internship, and possess or be fully eligible for licensure as a psychologist in California.

Rank and salary will be commensurate with experience.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University’s research, teaching and clinical missions.

Interested candidates should send a cover letter, current curriculum vitae, and the names of three references to:
