

Reproductive Psychiatrist – Woman's Wellness Clinic

The Women's Wellness Clinic in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Stanford University is seeking a psychiatrist with training or expertise in the area of reproductive psychiatry. This position includes consultation, evaluation, and follow-up treatment of perinatal and perimenopausal patients with psychiatric conditions affected by the reproductive cycle. Partners of patients may also be included in the care process. The Women's Wellness Clinic is a collaborative, multi-disciplinary and team-oriented clinic that includes psychiatrists, psychologists, and social workers. This faculty position includes supervision of PGY IV residents during their 6-month clinical rotations in the Women's Wellness Clinic, as well as psychiatry resident didactics and lectures in reproductive psychiatry in the medical school. Clinical research in reproductive psychiatry is encouraged and there are extensive opportunities for collaboration with faculty other departments at Stanford, including the Departments of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Neurology, and Immunology.

Qualifications

- MD/DO or equivalent Medical Degree from an accredited medical school.
- Completion of a 4-year adult psychiatry residency.
- Formal experience and/or training in culturally-competent reproductive psychiatry in an academic medical center setting preferred (Fellowship Training in Women's Mental Health preferred).
- Board certification in Psychiatry by the ABPN.
- Strong record in clinical service, education, and commitment to supporting clinical research.

Rank and salary will be commensurate with experience, and ranges from $230,000-$340,000.

This position commands a competitive salary enhanced by an attractive benefits package, including, but not limited to, generous housing assistance and home purchase programs, bonus programs, paid vacation time, paid personal time, as well as health/dental/vision benefits, paid malpractice, and 403(b) plans.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford also welcomes applications from others who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching, and clinical missions.
