

Marissa Town, RN, BSN, CDECS

ECHO Diabetes COVID-19 Program Manager

Clinical Research Manager,
Stanford University

Marissa Town, BSN, RN, CDECS, graduated from the University of Cincinnati with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing and later earned her Certified Diabetes Educator credential. She has had type 1 diabetes for over 30 years and has a passion for helping families living with diabetes. Marissa worked in an adult endocrinology clinic at the University of Cincinnati. She assisted in the creation of an outpatient group diabetes education program at West Chester Hospital. Marissa worked as a Clinical Diabetes Specialist for Tandem Diabetes in the Southwest Ohio region. Marissa is currently working as a Clinical Research Manager for the Artificial Pancreas Research Team at Stanford University, as well as the Diabetes Educator for ECHO Diabetes and ECHO Diabetes in the Time of COVID19. Marissa has volunteered at many support groups, diabetes camps and is volunteer staff at Children with Diabetes Friends for Life conferences.