STANFORD UNIVERSITY MINORITY MEDICAL ALLIANCE

SUMMA

33rd ANNUAL SUMMA CONFERENCE

The Power of Your Journey in Medicine
February 3, 2024
in-person event
Thirty-three years ago, Stanford medical students decided to organize the Stanford University Minority Medical Alliance (SUMMA) Conference with the goal of increasing diversity in the health professions to better care for underserved communities. The SUMMA annual pre-medical conference is one of the oldest premed conferences on the west coast and draws hundreds of students from throughout the Bay Area and nation. The SUMMA Conference achieves its goal by offering a variety of workshops, presentations by key faculty and professional staff, mock MMI interviews, networking with exhibitors representing medical and health profession schools from across the nation, and opportunities to meet Stanford medical and PA students from similar backgrounds and cultures. The SUMMA Conference is truly a unique experience in which conference attendees receive an in-depth experience of what it takes to enter and succeed in medicine. The conference is ideal for pre-medical/pre-health students considering medicine or allied health as a professional career.
Dear Valued Partner:

We are excited to share that we will be celebrating the Stanford University Minority Medical Alliance (SUMMA) Conference on Saturday, February 3, 2024! This is the 33rd year of the SUMMA Conference. This year's conference theme is "The Power of Your Story In Medicine."

We sincerely hope you will be available to join us to continue The Office of Diversity in Medical Education's efforts in increasing diversity in the health professions and to foster the development of leaders who are committed to eliminating the nation's health inequities.

We are excited to share that the SUMMA Conference will return to an in-person format this year. The conference will feature concurrent pre-med information sessions, a medical school exhibit hall, networking opportunities, social activities, and more. As a conference exhibitor you will play the integral role of developing a meaningful connection with our conference attendees. We encourage you to review the exhibitor prospectus packages and benefits.

On behalf of the entire SUMMA planning team, we hope you will choose to partner with us for this annual tradition and impactful engagement.
