Advancing Communication Excellence at Stanford
ACES | Advancing Communication Excellence at Stanford

ACES is a foundational, evidence-based workshop designed to augment and strengthen clinician’s communication skills with patients, families, and colleagues.

ACES Workshops are...
- Developed in partnership with the Academy of Communication in Healthcare and SHC
- Evidence based curriculum focused on empathic communication skills
- Available to all Stanford Children’s Physicians, Trainees, and APPs
- One day – 8 hours
- Free for all providers to attend
- Establishing a shared provider communication framework at SCH

Results to Date
Initial results from the first six months of ACES workshops have shown statistically significant improvements in:
- Decreased burnout and interpersonal disengagement
- Increased professional fulfillment
- Improved self reported communication behaviors and
- Increased compassionate self improvement.
ACES workshops focus on developing 3 critical skill sets:

Skill Set 1: Beginning the Encounter
- Create rapport quickly
- Elicit list of all concerns
- Negotiate the agenda

Skill Set 2: Relationship Centered Encounter
- Open the conversation
- Explore perspectives and name emotions
- Respond to emotional cues

Skill Set 3: Ending the Encounter
- Share information
- Address understanding
- Summarize and clarify

  - First meeting for current senators 9/25/18
- Designated presentations from the core committees
- Sample topics
  - Medical school admissions update
  - Financial health of SOM; focus on SOM and SUH, but not SCH
  - SOM strategic plan
  - Facilities & space allocation
  - Engaging the Basic Sciences
  - Residency Match results
  - Open access publishing
  - Physician resources
Good News!

• Many of the topics discussed at senate meetings are already being brought directly to our department meetings
  – Space
  – Medical School changes

• Important to have pediatrics at the table
Areas for Growth

• Senate is working to share topics and/or targeted questions in advance to allow gathering input from department constituents before meetings

• Sharing best practices across departments
