The Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, Division of Sleep Medicine, at Stanford University School of Medicine, is seeking a full-time faculty member in the Clinician Educator Line, at the rank of Clinical Assistant Professor, Clinical Associate Professor, or Clinical Professor, to conduct clinical care and teaching in behavioral sleep medicine. The position will be based at the Stanford Sleep Medicine Center in Redwood City.

The chosen candidate will provide clinical care in the outpatient Sleep Clinic. Teaching responsibilities will be fulfilled as part of the regular clinical activities, and include supervision and didactics to sleep medicine fellows, medical students, residents, fellows and other trainees.

Applicants must have a doctoral degree (PhD or PsyD) from an APA-accredited graduate program in clinical psychology, including an APA-accredited internship in clinical psychology. Preference will be given to applicants having current California licensure and specialty training in behavioral sleep medicine and health psychology, including evidence-based assessment and interventions such as behavior modification, cognitive-behavioral therapy, motivational enhancement, acceptance and commitment therapy, and/or mindfulness-based approaches.

The Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, School of Medicine, and Stanford University value faculty who are committed to advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion. Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University’s research, teaching and clinical missions. Interested candidates should send current curriculum vitae, a cover letter outlining their interests, and three letters of references via e-mail to:
